We've been recruiting Planning and Project Controls specialists for over 20 years

So our connections go way beyond those candidates actively looking for work

Just something for you to think about when you're looking for your next hire

WHAT MAKES US DIFFERENT?

We take great pride in restoring your faith in professional Project Controls recruitment, proving that not all recruiters are the same.

We do things a little differently from what you might have experienced from other recruiters, starting with a truly consultative approach which enables us to deliver a highly accurate, as well as ethical, service.

Our reputation and expertise in this sector means our clients trust us to partner with them, pipelining the very best Planning & Project Controls talent for forthcoming projects, reducing time to hire.

We guarantee not to waste your time with inappropriate CVs; we will never send you the CV of a candidate without fully briefing them on your role and gaining their express permission; and we simply don't have the time to call you every week "just to see how things are going". By contrast, we work with you, and tell you how it is - good news and bad - and do what we say we're going to do, without making unrealistic promises.

But don't just take our word for it...

Technology Resourcing are simply streets ahead of any other agency with which I have had dealings. They are THE benchmark to which others should aspire.

As a hiring manager, I have never failed to be impressed with the calibre of candidate Tech-Res have provided. I was aware of how they really get to know their candidates, having been one myself, but now appreciate the same diligence is applied with their clients.

...our testimonials speak for themselves

I have used Technology Resourcing's recruitment services as a trusted partner to my business for several years. Primarily because I have found their candidate selection appropriate and well filtered, the Technology Resourcing team to be proactive and flexible, excellent after sales service, value for money and good people to do business with.
